This month's topic:

SURFING 101

How to make use of the best features and tools in Apple's Safari and Google Chrome to browse the web to be presented by Tom Davis and Al Risaliti

If you have the craving, you can most certainly book a flight to San Francisco, rent a great surfboard, a wetsuit and a woodie, drive down to Mavericks beach, hang ten and shoot the curl. Far simpler is the task of surfing the World Wide Web. All you need is a good web browser and the knowledge of how to use its resources. On Tuesday, Tom and Al will show off Apple Safari and Google Chrome, and demonstrate how to set each browser's preferences to your own liking, how to save and organize your bookmarks, and how to utilize some of the not-so-obvious tools built into both browsers. Once you know how to use their features, Safari and Chrome make it easy to browse the web the way you want. And despite Ohio's winter chill, you can make a cup of hot cocoa and surf in comfort, with nary a drop of water on your feet. Surf's up!
