This month's topic:

SCALING EL CAPITAN

A tour of some of the best features in Apple's newest Macintosh operating system to be presented by Roger Owens

The dizzying heights of modern technology often bring amazing new functionality, and so it is with Mac OS X 10.11. Apple's latest operating system, El Capitan, is named after the monolithic mountain in Yosemite National Park, and it shares at least one aspect with its namesake: impressiveness. On Tuesday, Roger will demonstrate many of the new features in El Capitan, including faster performance, a new Spotlight to make searching easier, the ability to work in multiple apps at the same time using Split View, an even better Mission Control to help you find that one lost window, a new Notes app, a simple wiggle of the cursor to magnify itself, and more. And lest you suspect that your Mac will be excluded, El Capitan can run on many earlier Macs, some as old as 8 years, and upgrading is free. And speaking of dizzying heights, the original El Capitan stands an imposing 3,000 feet high, but if you would care to beat that, simply install El Capitan on a Mac laptop and take it with you on your next flight up into the blue.

Also,

BACK TO MAC BASICS

In this segment, we focus on more fundamental skills, to make life a little easier for those who are trying to learn how to use their Macs. This month:

A QUICK LOOK AT QUICK LOOK to be presented by Rob Ellis

Each time a Mac goodie called Quick Look is utilized at one of our meetings, many questions are asked. On Tuesday, Rob will again demonstrate Quick Look's capabilities, including how to quickly preview nearly any document on your Mac, and how to create easy slide shows.

Climbing 3,000 feet up El Capitan's vertical face may sound like a daunting task and a dangerous challenge (because it is), but please consider a mainly-horizontal drive to Tuesdays meeting, to join us for a look at the other El Capitan. And please feel free to bring a friend. See you there!

Happy New Year!
