With roughly a zillion apps or so available for the Mac, how does one pick favorites? Nevertheless, on Tuesday, Tom, Roger and Al will showcase a few software treasures of their choosing. Among them will be an app for combining images and turning photos into what look like pencil drawings, a suite of tools which provide a free alternative to Microsoft Office, a disk-searching utility which serves as a good replacement for Spotlight, a handy little widget for checking your local or non-local weather, and a dandy app for creating stunning photo collages. With a variety of different uses for your Mac, this is a nice handful of hand-picked apps.

Also,

BACK TO MAC BASICS
