This month's topic:

YOUR OWN YOUTUBE VIDEOS

How to create entertaining videos on your Mac, and upload them to YouTube
to be presented by Al Risaliti

Meet Al. Al recently bought a shiny new Mac, hoping to make videos with it. Just when Al was getting comfortable, thinking he could skate by with a few informational videos, along came Annette, who challenged him to create a video involving one of his deadly-boring, bicycle-related topics, but with a catch. Annette insists that the video must actually be fun and interesting. On Tuesday, Al will take his best shot at it, and in the process, will discuss video-capture equipment such as your camera or iPhone, explore how to use Apple's Final Cut Pro software, explain several video production techniques, show how to tell an engaging story with images, and demonstrate how to keep an audience from falling into a deep sleep. Will Al succeed? Please join us on Tuesday, and you can be the judge. And do be sure to bring your thumbs with you, because thumbs up or thumbs down will determine whether Al has created a tedious bicycle video, or pure YouTube gold.

Also,

BACK TO MAC BASICS

In this segment, we focus on more fundamental skills, to make life a little easier for those who are trying to learn how to use their Macs. This month:

ANOTHER EASY WAY TO DO MAC SCREENSHOTS

to be presented by Rob Ellis

Besides Apple's Grab software, there is another tool you can use to take pictures of whatever is on your Mac's screen: your fingers. On Tuesday, Rob will show all the keyboard shortcuts you can use to create perfect screenshots on your Mac.
