Rob Ellis 2014

In 1984, Apple released the very first Macintosh. With its brilliant design and groundbreaking graphical user interface, it led a technological revolution that changed the face of computing forever. In that same year, a group of programmers, hackers, and devoted fans, caught up in the fever of that revolution and madly in love with the new computer, founded the MAC<sup>2</sup> users group. Three decades later, we are delighted to celebrate our group's thirtieth birthday. Along with an honest-to-goodness birthday cake, refreshments, and great conversations, we will also be showing the recent movie, Jobs, starring Ashton Kutcher and others. The film is a dramatic, engaging and entertaining way to learn about some of Apple's history, and about the man who helped make so much of that history, Steve Jobs. Whether you are a current member or former member of our group, have ever been an officer of the group, or have simply been curious about the group, you are most welcome. Please join us on Tuesday for Apple cider, birthday cake, a raffle, wonderful talk and a movie, a combination that just might be considered, dare we say it, insanely great.

Also,

FREE RAFFLE!

We will be raffling several reusable, foldable, Apple-branded water bottles. These cleverly-designed bottles are lightweight, washable, and great for travel or outdoor activities, and all proudly display the Apple logo.

Please note that this raffle is FREE to everyone attending the meeting.

Happy birthday to us ... and many more! Alright, perhaps the Apple cider was not actually made by Apple, but it is perfectly sweet for the occasion. If you have been craving some really good birthday cake, a social evening with fellow MacHeads, and a good movie, please come join us on Tuesday and take part in the festivities. And please feel free to bring a friend. See you there!
